Song of Worship	It Is Not Death To Die

If Christ had not interposed and made peace by the blood of His Cross, if He had not assumed our guilt and stood in our room, He would never have experienced such anguish of soul, nor uttered so doleful a cry; for God the Father would never have deserted His beloved Son. But when He voluntarily undertakes to redeem man, when He comes in the great name of God to save us sinners, the Father forsakes Him, because that on His shoulders was then laid the enormous load of human guilt. How should it excite our hearts to gratitude and praise, when we remember that all Christ suffered on the cross was for sinful humanity. He then endured pain that we might enjoy pleasure...Oh, what do such voluntary humiliation and suffering demand from us? What can we render to our Divine Surety for His amazing and unparalleled love to us? Surely our warmest affections should be given to Him who was thus mindful of us in our lost condition.
