Hymn of Worship Come to Jesus (Rest in Him)

Without the active obedience of Christ, we are tempted to think that Jesus gets us started on the way to heaven by giving us a blank slate and then we finish the job by our obedience. In fact, many people actually live their lives as if that is the case. Once we understand the active obedience of Christ, we understand that our obedience is rendered in order to thank the Lord for what He has done, not to earn heaven.

In the year 1225, completely blind and nearing death, St. Francis of Assisi arrived at the Convent of St. Damian to bid goodbye to his dear friend, Sister Clara. Clara built him a small reed hut in the garden of her little monastery. It's said that at times St. Francis could be heard singing faint melodies from within the hut. It was at a meal with the sisters after having stayed for some time at the monastery that he wrote his famous text, "Canticle of the Sun," later paraphrased into the beloved hymn we will sing today, All Creatures of Our God and King.

As we sing this hymn, we join with Christians throughout the ages and with all of Creation to sing our praises to God the Creator. Psalm 145 says, "My mouth will speak in praise of the LORD. Let every creature praise his holy name for ever and ever." This is our call and our invitation, and now, using the words God has given us through St. Francis, we answer that invitation with a joyful "Alleluia!"
