If we would be filled with faith, joy, and peace, then it must be by believing the truths set forth in the Scriptures. Before we have any inward ground of hope, God himself must be our hope. We must not ask for joy first, and then found our faith upon it, but our joy must grow out of our faith, and that must rest upon God alone...Beloved, if you desire to get faith in Christ, or to increase it, be diligent in knowing and understanding the gospel of your salvation as set forth in the Word of God. See what God has revealed and see how he has displayed to you the hope of everlasting life, and then believe with all your heart the testimony of God.

Charles H. Spurgeon, 1877

Additionally, we will gather at the Lord's Table for communion. Following the service, we will enjoy a time of fellowship, which will include a catered meal.
